THE Washington Patriot, of June 27th says: "Mr. Akerman, Attorney General of the United States, has, at much personal inconvenience, quit his residence in Georgia, and come to Washington to pass a few days in the Department of Justice, and draw his salary on the 1st of July, as prescribed by law. As the season is unpleasant, he would prefer not to be disturbed by what is called public business during his sejourn at the Capital; but, imitat ng the illustrious example of the 'Government' at Long Branch, he is willing to be 'interviewed,' to any reasonable extent, upon all subjects except his connection with the Confederate army, which, as a 'loyal' office holder, he now virtually laments. Mr. Akerman will return to his home in a few weeks for the summer, and has made arrangements for receiving his pay, by which he will spare the vexation of another visit to Washington before au-

Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad held in Charlotte last Tuesday, Hon. S. N. Martin tendered his resignation as President, which was sceepted, and M. Cronly, Esq. of this city, was elec ed to the position.

Mr. Martin's ill health rendered necessary this action on bis part.

Mr. Cronly accepts the Presidency of the Road, fully aware of the difficulties which surround him. He is a business m n of energy and of long and successful e cerunes. In addition to the interest he feels in the completion of the work in common with all our citizens, he has a Very large personal interest in it. He will d wore his time and abilities to his new duties. He has the sympathics, as we hope he will receive the aid and encouragement, of all the friends of this great

THE present Pope, who is now in his eighty-second year, and has just attained the unprecedented reign of twenty-five years, gave no promise of such long if- it he you heal days. He suffered so much from epileptic fits that he did not receive the minor orders of sub-deacon and deacon till the age of twenty-eight, and his malady threatened to preclude his further promotion. At length Pius VII. yielded to his zealous importunity and granted a dispen-arion for his ordination as priest, on condition that young Ferretti should never venture to celebrate mass unless in the pre-ence of another clergyman who might finish the sacra ce in case he should have an a tock of the falling stekness. This conditr ns on tailed the mini trations of the Young priest t at he again sought audience with the re-going Pope in order to hav i 1 m nol. Pius VII, who had endure t all the trials of the Bonaparte era, and had witnessed the fall of the great Comican, little dreamed that a future Pope was before him who should live to endure similar trials and witness the fall of anhand of the young suppliant, saying : "Y s, we will grant you even this favor, as I believe that for the future you will no longer be affected by your disease." And in m that day to the present, over fiftytw . years, he has never had a single return

The Ku klux testimony from Mississippi is remarkable, and in the Radical interest extremely disappointing. That State has been counted upon with considerable confidence for material aid and comfort to the crusaders against the political peace of the South. Certain riotous proceedings at Meridian last year, it was thought, could portant features in our present Constitu- preme Court. be brought into very profitable requisition in the manufacture of Radical capital, al though, like most of the material of that sor, of too old a date to admit of any application of the Ku-klux law. No evidence | shall, by appropriate legislation and by has yet been adduced to show the slightest present neces-ity for the Ku-klux law, or for any special interposition of law, whatev r disorders may have heretofore occurred. The examination of Mr. Whittaker, a awyer of Meridian, is conclusive colored and white population, and of s high party excitement, which had been arons-d and sim stated by turbuleut spirit on both si es. Tue outrages which occurred were confined to neither party, and the fights which eneded were not in all instan es between party and party, but is one very special case, and probably one of the worst of the acts of violence, was among the Radicels themselves, carpetbeggers and blacks, and was an outbreak of not ur common occurrence in the political in ercourse of those mutually jealous branches of the Radical family.

Passing Strange. It is wonderful with what avidity chronic office-seekers among the Radicais, who say that Convention will be defeated, work for the nomination in counties where their election is assured. Now Abbott's political history-that is his North Caroline politic. I history-proves that, as much as he loves his party with the negroes thrown in, he does not work for nothing read, for no time is specified in the Con- and personal property of the State, with and pay his own expenses. Never was there a more false or silly allegation. The boot is altogether on the other leg. The men, the party, or rather the few leaders, who so successfully manipulated the negro vote, and by that means, combined with threats, forced the present incongruous and miserable Constitution upon us, are the real Revolutionists. As Nathan said unto David: "Thou art the man!" To undo the mischief of a Revolution and peaceably to restore ancient and time-honored landmarks, so far as practicable, is Conserva tism, not Revolution. This is precisely and simply what we propose to do. If to put back integrity and wisdom on the Bench, from which they were violently thrust by ignorance, knavery and the bayonet-if to abolish systems that were forced down the throats of a people by the sword-if to remodel abuses that were forcibly engrafted upon our State government-if to tread the paths of safety and wise experience-if to seek, by legal and constitutional means, to lessen the public burdens—if to attempt to do all these things without invading any man's vested rights, any of the privileges of citizenship, or any of the guarantees of law, be Revolution, why we confess ourse ves

The meeting was organized by calling appoining Z M Co-ton Secretary.

Mr. Scott, Chairman, proceeded briefly The Chairman showed up, in glowing language, for which he is so characteristic as a speaker, the absolute necessity of holding a People's Convention in September nex', in order to ii | North Carolina of her ton nuder which she is now laboring and must soon be subjected to, and onder evitably be crus .ed. Though Mr Scott's address was brief, we have carcely ever seard m re good sense, practical, good jadgment and sound logical reasoning excre-s d in fewer words.

Tie Chairman then called for the names of delega es from e co old Captain's distric., thire designtes from each, as by previ as arrangement, and there being ten districts, making our Consty Convention o sist of thirty delegates, all of whom soon reported.

A li t of the delegates was at once made out and they retired to select a candidate. During their absence Col. L. W. Hum. phrey, from G dasboro, being present and . the egality and Constitutionality of
